- Increase energy and vitality.
- Reduce body fat and build muscle mass.
- Improve physical performance and mental focus.

Testosterone is a key hormone responsible for male sexual characters and for the development and maintenance of muscle mass. It also affects energy, libido and mood. Testosterone levels fall due to external factors such as diet, stress, lack of sleep and they also decrease with age (about 1% a year after middle age).

Low levels of testosterone can cause low energy levels and an increase in weight and body fat. Low levels of testosterone also lead to less muscle mass, less strength, and even less concentration skills.

Weider Prime's formula and its combination of active ingredients were specifically designed to reduce the effects of stress and external factors on the natural production of testosterone, and to provide the essential nutrients for producing this hormone:

- KSM-66™ (Ashwagandha): a patented, clinically tested extract with high purity and great power. KSM-66 improves resistance to stress and enhances the feeling of wellbeing. Studies have shown how KSM-66 improves resistance and maximum oxygen consumption.
- Cordyceps: an ingredient that increases the body's natural resistance to environmental stress (an adaptogen). This herbal component has been used in China for centuries to increase vitality and physical resistance.
- Vitamin D: the levels of this vitamin are directly linked to testosterone levels. A vitamin involved in proper muscle function.
- Vitamin B6 and B12: vitamins involved in energy metabolism.
- Zinc: a key mineral for testosterone production.
- Chromo: involved in the proper function of insulin and in the regulation of glucose levels.
- Choline: helps fats to metabolize correctly.
- Bioperine: a patented form of piperine, which improves the absorption and bioavailability of the ingredients in Weider Prime.
